A Boy Accidentally Poisoned. Mahoney, a boy six years of age, residing with his parents at No. 69 Fulton street, while play-ing in the attic of the house yesterday afternoon got hole of a cup containing some poisonous acid, which he drank. The deceased was under the influence of liquor on somebow he got into the bold, and yesterday morn-ing was found suffocated. The jury rendere a ver-ter of death from asphyxia.

Yesterday Coroner Jones took charge of the body of a man which had been found floating in the river sear the Hamilton avenue ferry by the captain of the yacht Silvia, and which had been towed to the Columbia wharf. There was every indication about the deceased that he had met his death by violence, for his Jace was scarred and his head was cut in several places. The body was removed to the Morgue to await his identification.

The Fire and Loss of Life. An inquest was held yesterday by Coroner Jones wer the body of John McCowan. The body of the deceased, it will be remembered, was burned to a crisp in a small wash house in the rear of the liquor store of Edward Kelley, at the corner of Schenck street and DeKalb avenue. It is supposed the unfortunate man went into the place to steep white under the influence of liquor and accidentally set it on fire. The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the facts.

Yesterday forencon Officer Frank McQuade's at-tention was attracted by a large number of vagrant fogs acting in an unusual manner in the vacant lots corner of Moore and Morrell streets, Wilhamsburg. On proceeding to investigate the cause of so un-usual a gathering the officer found that they were barking and snapping—apparently deliberately— over the body of a newly-born infant that had been thrown there by some inhuman creature. The body of the infant—a female—was perfectly formed, and escaped mutitation by the dogs, the latter showing a more tender regard for it than the human wretch who thus disposed of it. Coroner Whitchill will have it properly interred.

Dick McLaughin, a Williamsburg pedier, was arrested yesterday afternoon and locked up in the Fourth street station house on a charge of biting of "Sandy" Gallagher's nose. Dick denies the serious charge. He says that Sandy, who was employed by name, he says that sandy, who was employed by nim, was dissatisfied with his wages, and that he made an effort to get better pay by giving him a thrashing when they met yesterday in the rear room of the grocery and liquor store corner of North Fourth and Fitth streets. While defending himself he knocked Sandy's nose against a large coffee mill and badly disfigured that once handsome member. Justice Voorhies will this inorming investigate the story of the mill.

Mrs. Ann Lahey, who resides at No. 48 Canal rect, and who is said to be snamefully addicted to the use of alcoholic spirits, got into a quarrel with her husband at a sate hour on Monday night. Ann proceeded to put her liege lord out of the house and proceeded to put her itege ford out of the house and selzed him for that purpose. The window of their apartments, which are on the second floor, was open, and in the course of the tussel which ensued Ann is stated to have lost her balance and fallen out. She fell upon the sidewalk and was severely injured. As she charged her husband with having pushed her out he was arrested. Yesterday he was taken before Justice Delmar, when it was shown that he was not at all to bisme in the matter, and he was thereupon discharged.

[Course.]

The author of "Rank" intended to convey a lesson in favor of caste and a warning against the inavitable painful consequences of one's living in intimate relations with one's fellow creatures above or below one's special rank in the community. "

There are amusing points in "Rank, and several very strong situations. "

The leading main character, interpreted by Mr. George Clarke, " depicted as possessed with nobleness of soul, rectitude or purpose and a claim to our admiration and sympathy "Mr. George Clarke and Miss Lina Edwin, as the ber and beroine, distinguish themselves. [Daily Times.]

The new piece called "Rank," produced on Tuesday last at Lina Edwin's behavire, has drawn good houses ever since While we could not admire Mr. George Clarke's dialect in the hero of this drama, we take piesaure in saying that Miles Hubb is played with spirit and force, and that Mr. Clarke gives indications in it of a versatile power that will place him much higher in his profassion, the has her way set risen.
